Topic:

"Food for Thought" is an inspiring Erasmus+ Youth Exchange that brings together young people from across Europe to explore food as a powerful tool for learning, expression, and change. Set in the vibrant and diverse city of Berlin, this project invites participants to reflect on their personal food habits, cultural traditions, and the broader social and environmental impacts of what we eat.

Through interactive workshops, hands-on cooking sessions, and creative activities, young participants will dive into key topics such as food, culture, and sustainable consumption. This youth exchange will encourage participants to think critically about how food connects to identity, culture, and social responsibility - empowering them to become change-makers in their communities through conscious food choices and collective action.
